We lived in Cincinnati, Ohio all our lives, till my husband Walter retired, we moved to Florida. Like many World War II Veterans, he passed away last year at 90. Walter was in the Army at Hampton Roads Port of Embarkation. I worked at the Base till 1945. We had blackouts and air raids. My one experience was going to see a Japanese one-man submarine, very small entrance. It was caught by the navy in Chesapeake Bay.

Enclosed are some ration points issued by the government in 1941 for gas, food, shoes, etc.

It is nice to know that you are taking out time to hear our experience.
